Asia Pacific Fiber Cement Outlook

 Our expectation is that net sales across our Asia Pacific businesses will continue to deliver improved results in line with growth in the local housing markets of the regions in which we operate

FY2015 Guidance

Management expects full year Adjusted net operating profit to be between US$210 million and US$222 million assuming, among other things, housing industry conditions in the United States continuing to improve and that an exchange rate at or near current levels is applicable for the remainder of the fiscal year

¹ Management is unable to forecast the comparable US GAAP financial measure due to uncertainty regarding the impact of actuarial estimates on asbestos-related assets and liabilities in future periods

US INPUT COSTS

Quarterly US Input Costs

Discussion:

- Input costs are up significantly over the prior year, and beginning to flatten out or decrease
- The price of NBSK pulp remains near a three-year peak
- The cost of gas and electric for industrial users decreased to slightly above its historical four year average
- We are engaged in effective sourcing strategies to reduce the impact of increasing market prices

The information underlying the table above is sourced as follows:

- Pulp Cost per ton from RISI
- Gas Cost per thousand cubic feet for industrial users from US Energy Information Administration
- Electric Cost per thousand kilowatt hour for industrial users from US Energy Information Administration
- Cement Relative index from the Bureau of Labor Statistics
